Escape of Seven Criminals LAPORTE, IND., Nov. 15 .- A big jail delivery ook place here last evening, by which seven otorious criminals secured their liberty. They emoved several iron bars from the window on the lower floor of the county jail, which af-forded them an easy escape. Four other pris-oners confined on the same floor refused to take advantage of the opportunity afforded them to escape. One of the men was seen as he dropped the window by a female employed at the jail, who promptly gave the alarm. A large force was hastily organized for pursuit, and the surrounding country is being thoroughly searched. One of the escaped men recently served a prison term for murder and is wanted for an attempt to kill a guard at the northern prison. Two are wanted for burglary, two for

Short Time for the Rochdale Mill. LONDON, Nov. 15 .- The Rochdale mill owners have decided to put their operatives on short time. The Extinction of the Andamanese. From Globus.
All attempts at civilizing these people have been a complete failure, although the attempt was made with young children, and persisted in for a dozen years. One of the phenomena attending the attempt has been observed elsewhere, and is of great interest. Up to ten years the Andamanese children held their own in the school against the children of Europeans and Hindoos. At this stage they came to a dead halt, while the others entered upon another and higher stage of mental evolution.

On account of the wandering life led by the natives it is difficult to estimate their numbers with precision. Ten years ago the native population was figured at 3,500 and the Indian settlers at 12,000. These were mostly settled on Great Andaman, and to this fact must be attributed the early extinction of the natives there. But even before the Andamanese were exposed to the influences of civilization there was very little increase. The young men mar-ried at eighteen to twenty-two, the girls ried at eighteen to twenty. Families Maryland Avenue—S. R. White, pastor; A. E. at from sixteen to twenty. Pamilies consisted generally of three or four, occasionally of six, children. The chilseek the breast as long as it contains any nour-ishment. The infant mortality has always been great in consequence of injudicious treatment, but infanticide is unknown among them. Ac-cording to Mr. Man's account, the habits of the people were never conducive to health, and numerous diseases prevailed before the advent of the foreigners. They were especially liable to diseases and speedily succumbed to those of the foreigners. They were especially liable to diseases and speedily succumbed to those which passed by Europeans without endangering their lives. Their vital force is low and the ever prevalent fever prepares the system for the ravages of other diseases. Epilepsy is not rare; opthalmia has deprived many of them of their sight. Smallpox is unknown, but measles plays havoc with them. This disease was brought by convicts from Madras, and rapidly spread over the islands. Their final extinction spread over the islands. Their final extinction a mere question of the vitality of the surviv

There are three vacancies in the French academy and prospects that others will shortly occur. M. de Lesseps is now eighty-seven years old and very feeble, and M. Sully-Prudhomme's condition is such that little hope is entertained of his recovery. Several of the other members are very old.

The Bering sea arbitrators, who are to meet other members are very old.

The Bering sea arbitrators, who are to meet in Paris, will probably not assemble before February. Lord Hannen, assisted by Sir George Baden-Powells, is laboring steadily over the cause for Great Britain. In official circles here the opinion prevails that the arbitration proceedings will be protracted.
